WhatsApp - New Features

As one of the most popular messaging apps around the world, WhatsApp continue to add new features to keep users onboard. Two of the newest features are the ability to edit a sent message within 15 minutes of it being sent, and 'Keep in Chat'.

The first (edit within 15 minutes) is exactly what it says. You can send a message to someone or a group and, if you need to make changes you can do so within 15 minutes. This is good, particularly for someone who may have rushed a reply to something and didn't critically think about it before pressing 'Send', or realises that the message could be taken out of context.

The second, 'Keep in Chat' is where someone can select certain messages that they want to keep in a folder called 'Kept messages'.

There's more detail to the explanation in the Childnet article HERE for further details, including the positives and negatives to these new features.
